

Institute for Asian Studies & Department of International Studies Presents

Japan & the US: Women in Bilateral Relations and the International Movement

A Lecture by Junko Ochi, Deputy Consul General of the Japanese Consulate in Portland

To review Japan-US relations six decades after the World War II in terms of women's issues referring to the similarities and differences and to extend the perspectives of both countries in the international trend.

Junko Ochi has been the Deputy Consul General of the Consulate General of Japan in Portland since February 2006. Before coming to Portland, Ochi was dispatched as the senior liaison officer to the International Environmental Technology Center (IETC) of the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP) in Osaka, Japan.

Thursday, February 5th / 6:30pm - 8:30pm
BA 190 (School of Business Administration)
For INTL 101 (CRN 41468)